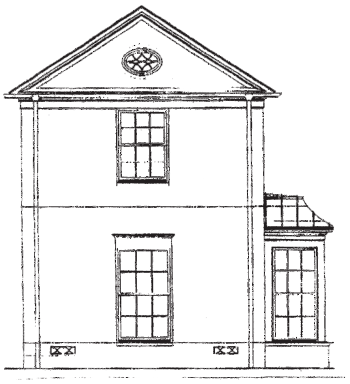
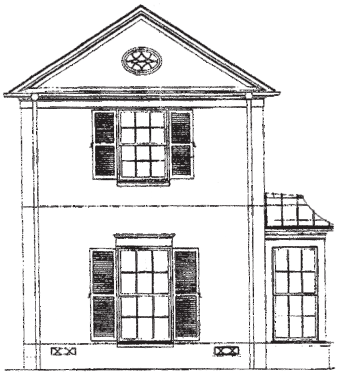
Exterior Shutters

A wonderful architectural detail often overlooked or misused on homes is the outside shutters. Done correctly, they can be one of the home's chief charms. Davis-Hawn offers superior-grade shutters that can add the finishing touch to your home. The cost of well-made shutters is insignificant to the value and attractiveness they add to even the simplest of dwellings.





In addition to ornamentation, shutters were historically valued for protection and ventilation - often with paneled shutters downstairs for security and louvered (called "blinds") upstairs for air and shade. To properly adorn your home, correct sizing for each window and hinged installation are essential (even if shutting is rare, they'll look best if they appear to have this function).

When selecting Davis-Hawn shutters, please consider the following:

- Size the shutters so each one covers half the window (see below)
- Hand-selected Western Red Cedar, naturally decay-resistent
- Mount to window casing, not bricks or siding
- Authentic forged hardware & shutter dogs (Peters,Wright)
- Center rail & Panel configuration – 50/50, cottage
- Rabbited and beaded stiles for overlap when closed
- Tilt-rod for decoration or working louvers
- Cut-out, routed or stenciled patterns for panels
- Copper caps for shedding water
- Primed or pre-finished & ready to install
